THIS STUDY OF "NEGLECTED LANGUAGES" IN UNITED STATES COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES IN 1963-64 SUPPLEMENTED AN EARLIER STUDY CONDUCTED DURING THE ACADEMIC YEAR 1962-63. THE PRESENT REPORT SHOWED (AS DID THE EARLIER ONE) THAT THE NEGLECT IS DIMINISHING WITH ENROLLMENTS OF ABOUT 21,000 IN FOREIGN LANGUAGE CLASSES, EXCLUDING THE "BIG FIVE" (FRENCH, GERMAN, ITALIAN, RUSSIAN, AND SPANISH), AS COMPARED (WITH 17,000 ENROLLMENTS REPORTED IN THE EARLIER STUDY. IN 207 COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES IN THE UNITED STATES, 70 "NEGLECTED" LANGUAGES WERE BEING TAUGHT. FIVE LANGUAGES HAD ENROLLMENTS OF MORE THAN 1,000 EACH - HEBREW, JAPANESE, CHINESE, PORTUGESE, AND NORWEGIAN. ARABIC, POLISH, SWEDISH, AND VIETNAMESE HAD ENROLLMENTS OF 500 TO 1,000 STUDENTS. RELATED INFORMATION MAY BE FOUND IN ED 010 470. (JH)

The research reported herein was performed pursuant to Contract No. OE 4-14-033 with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

FOREWORD

This report updates the information in Manpower in the Neglected Languages, Fall 1962, by John Harmon et al, a survey conducted by the Modern Language Association under contract with the U.S. Office of Education and published in December 1963. By definition, the "neglected" languages are all those other than French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish. The present report shows, as did the earlier one, that the neglect is diminishing; in Fall 1963, more than 20,000 enrollments were reported in some 70 "neglected" languages--an increase of 22 per cent over the 1962 figures of about 17,000 in 68 languages.

Other highlights of the report:

- Two hundred seven colleges and universities reported at least one course in a neglected language in Fall 1963; in 1962, the number was 168.
- Graduate enrollments, representing almost one-fourth of the total, gained 30 per cent over the previous year.
- Five languages showed enrollments of more than a thousand each: Hebrew, Japanese, Chinese, Portuguese, and Norwegian. In the 500-1000 range were Arabic, Polish, Swedish, and Vietnamese.
- Twenty-nine languages were reported from 54 institutions in Summer 1964, an increase over the 29 languages taught in 42 institutions in Summer 1963. The largest summer enrollments were in Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese, Arabic and Polish. Sixty per cent of the summer enrollees were graduate students.
- Only 275 enrollments in languages of India and 150 in sub-Saharan African languages were reported in the regular session. Summer enrollments added 125 and 65, respectively, to these totals.
- In listing career plans, 40 per cent of the graduate students who returned questionnaires reported that they plan to teach. An additional 18 per cent expect to do research or writing.

For the preceding information and all the rest included in the five parts of this report, the staff members of the Foreign Language Program Research Center are happy to acknowledge their debt to the thousands of individuals--chairmen, teachers, students--who responded to requests for information.

MANPOWER IN THE NEGLECTED LANGUAGES, 1963-64

A Report in Five Parts

CONTENTS

I. (A) The findings of the survey. Data on enrollments, teachers, and students, with corresponding information from the 1962-63 report to indicate trends. Summaries, charts, tables.

(B) Listing of 275 department chairmen and other officials charged with administration of courses in neglected languages in the more than 200 colleges and universities that offer such courses.

(C) Textbooks used in the languages covered by the survey, as reported by the teachers of the courses. Arranged by language.

II. (A) Enrollments in each language, arranged by state and institution. Breakdown by course level separately for undergraduate and graduate students.

(B) Language enrollments, from Afrikaans to Yoruba, with listings of all institutions in which each language was offered in 1963-64.

III. (A) Roster of college and university teachers, arranged alphabetically. Following each name are references of academic rank, language taught, and institution.

(B) The names of (A) above, arranged by language taught.

(C) Roster of secondary-school teachers.

IV. Roster of students, arranged alphabetically under each language of study.

V. Summer Session, 1964. A separate study, incorporating the same information included in Parts I-IV above.

SECTION A

Data on Enrollments, Students, and Teachers

Enrollments in neglected languages reported by department chairmen in Fall 1963 totaled 20,924, as compared with 17,072 in Fall 1962--an increase of 22.6 per cent.

Undergraduate enrollment in Fall 1963 was 16,168, or 77.3 per cent of the total; graduate enrollment was 4,756, or 22.7 per cent of the total. These percentages correspond closely to the figures for Fall 1962, when the division was 78.7 per cent for the undergraduate enrollment and 21.3 per cent for the graduate.

Chart A, below, gives the breakdown of total enrollments by academic level for 1961, 1962, and 1963 and shows the percentages of increase at each level for 1962 and 1963.

CHART A. Enrollments in Neglected Languages

	1961	1962	Per cent of Increase over 1961	1963	Per cent of Increase over 1962
Undergraduates	12,779	13,428	5.1	16,168	20.4
Graduates	2,928	3,644	24.5	4,756	30.6
Total	15,707	17,072	8.7	20,924	22.6

Table E-1 gives total enrollments reported in neglected languages in Fall 1962 and in Fall 1963 and the per cents of change.

As in 1962, the largest per cent of increase in enrollments (595.4) was in Vietnamese, again due to enrollments at the Defense Language Institute, West Coast Branch. Of the other languages for which per cents of change are given in Table E-1, 3 had increases of more than 50 per cent (Bulgarian, Danish, and Finnish), 7 were in the 25-50 per cent range (Hungarian, Japanese, Norwegian, Portuguese, Serbo-Croatian, Swedish, and Thai), and 10 increased less than 25 per cent (Arabic, Chinese, Dutch, Hawaiian, Hebrew, Indonesian, Korean, Persian, Swahili, and Turkish). Seven languages showed decreases in enrollments: Armenian, Czech, Hindi, Polish, Slovak, and Ukrainian. The largest decreases were in Slovak (50.0%), and Ukrainian (43.4%).

About one fourth of the totals for neglected languages in Fall 1963 consisted of enrollments in modern Hebrew, concentrated in a few schools in which Hebrew is either a required or predominant part of the curriculum. This means that the figures to be distributed among the other languages are actually fewer than the totals may suggest. Fifty-three of the 60 languages for which enrollments were reported had enrollments of fewer than 50 each. After Hebrew, Japanese had the largest 1963 enrollment (3,101), followed by Chinese (2,516), and Portuguese (2,478). Norwegian was the only other language with an enrollment over 1,000 (1,179). Arabic, Polish, Swedish, and Vietnamese had enrollments of over 500 each.

Eight languages for which enrollments were reported in 1962 had none reported in 1963: Irish, Krio, Kurdish, Lettish, Netherlandic, Samoan, Zulu, and Slavic linguistics. Fifteen languages, which may have been offered but were not taught in 1962, had enrollments in 1963: Bemba, Catalan, Chagatai, Chi-Nyanja, Dutch-Flemish, Hindi-Urdu, Kannada, Kazan-Turkic, ki-Kongo, Manchu, Munda, Nahuatl, Ruthenian, South Slavic Linguistics, Twi.

Table E-2 gives a breakdown of all enrollments by elementary, intermediate, advanced, and literature courses. Under each category a column is given for undergraduate and graduate. The enrollments in the column "No Breakdown" are those for which the chairmen gave only the breakdown into undergraduates and graduates, and not the level of study.

The following chart gives national data on enrollments by level of study of neglected languages:

TEACHERS

A total of 1,103 persons were reported by department chairmen to be teaching one or more neglected languages in Fall 1963. Three hundred and ninety-nine persons were reported for the first time and did not appear on the 1962 roster. Of these, 130 persons did not return their questionnaires. The 269 forms which were returned have been tabulated, as well as 10 forms sent by teachers who were listed on last year's roster, but did not return their questionnaires at the time. Information from these 279 teachers is given on Tables T-1 through T-4. The first column on each table lists the language taught.

Table T-1 gives data on age and position. The largest age group of the 279 teachers are the 110 between 30 and 39 years (39.4%), followed by the 77 persons between 20 and 29 (27.6%). The teachers in the age group between 40 and 49 accounted for 16.5%, or 46 persons, and those between 50 and 59, 9.3%, or, 26 persons. There were only 4 teachers over 60 (1.4%); 16 (5.7%) did not give their age.

The largest group by academic rank was that of TA (Teaching Associate, Teaching Assistant, and Teaching Fellow): 78 persons or 28.0%, followed by Instructor, 59, or 21.1%; Assistant Professor, 43, or 15.4%; Professor 25, or 9.0%; Lecturer, 38, or 13.6%: Associate Professor, 17, or 6.1%: Informant, 8, or 2.9%: and Teacher, 3, or 1.0%. Eight persons (2.9%) did not give their rank.

Table T-2 presents data on proficiency in neglected languages and the sources of the knowledge that teachers have about the countries in which the languages are spoken.

Teachers were asked to indicate their abilities in all modern foreign languages on the basis of a proficiency code. Information from this code was tabulated for each teacher only for the language(s) he was teaching in Fall 1963. (Information on other languages in which proficiencies were indicated appears on Table T-4). The code numbers 0, 1, and 2, relating to speaking ability, were mutually exclusive, and only one of the three was tabulated for each teacher. Persons who indicated more than one of these three were tabulated for the highest proficiency indicated. Code numbers 3 and 4, relating to reading ability, were also mutually exclusive, and persons who indicated both were counted under 3 only. The code numbers 5, 6, 7, and 8 were not mutually exclusive, and each was counted wherever it was indicated. Chart C below gives the breakdown of numbers of persons indicating self-evaluated proficiencies in the languages taught by them in Fall 1963, and the per cents of the total number of teachers:

CHART C - LANGUAGE PROFICIENCY OF TEACHERS (SELF-RATING)

	Number of Teachers indicating proficiency:	Per Cent of 279	No indication given by:	Per Cent of 279
0 Native or near-native command	210	75.3
1 Fluent though obviously non-native in speaking	40	14.3
2 Adequate for general conversation	29	10.4
Total indicating speaking proficiency	279	100.0
3 Read difficult material easily	261	93.5
4 Reading knowledge adequate for research	18	6.5
Total indicating reading proficiency	279	100.0
5 Can lecture in language	204	73.1	75	26.9
6 Translator or interpreter	136	48.7	143	51.3
7 Have made linguistic studies or analyses	106	38.0	173	62.0
8 Have taught language	279	100.0

Table T-2 also gives data on teachers who were natives of foreign countries, and on the sources of knowledge gained about foreign countries by American-born teachers. Of the 279 teachers who supplied information, 160 (57.3%) were foreign-born native speakers of the language they were teaching in Fall 1963. The largest number of American-born teachers were the 31 or 11.1% who had lived in the country for an extensive period of time. Other sources of knowledge were studying in the country, 10.0% or 28 persons, extensive research, 5.4% or 15 persons, teaching in country, 4.3% or 12 persons, and extensive travel, 3.2% or 9 persons.

Table T-3 specifies the number of persons who had received bachelor's, master's, and Ph.D. degrees in languages, linguistics, and other subjects. The heading "Language" on this table (in each degree category) indicates numbers of persons who had earned degrees in the language which they were teaching in Fall 1963.

In many cases, no data on degrees held were indicated. Also, many persons who indicated that they held Ph.D.'s gave no indication of their majors leading to bachelor's or master's degrees.

Eighty-five teachers (or 30.5% of the total 279) stated that they held Ph.D.'s; 190 (or 68.1%) stated that they held Master's degrees, and 256 (or 91.8%) stated that they held Bachelor's degrees.

Chart D below gives the number of teachers with bachelor's, master's, and Ph.D. degrees in language, literature and "Other" as well as the number who did not provide information. Also the per cents are given of the total responding in each degree category and of the total number of teachers on whom data were available:

A total of 36 held Ph.D.'s, 70 held master's degrees and 71 held bachelor's degrees in the language which they were teaching. In linguistics, 8 held Ph.D.'s, 15 held master's and 14 held bachelor's degrees.

Table T-4 shows languages other than the language of instruction in which the teachers indicated proficiencies. In this tabulation, a teacher was counted once for each language in which he indicated a proficiency.

More teachers had proficiency in French (153) than in any other of the commonly taught modern foreign languages. It was followed by German (103), Spanish (67), Italian (45), and Russian (34).

STUDENTS

Questionnaires were filled out and returned by 6,106 students of neglected languages in the academic year 1963-64. The undergraduate students represented enrollments in 44 languages, and the graduates in 52. Approximately one-fourth of the students who responded were graduates.

In both graduate and undergraduate categories, students in fewer than 10 languages accounted for more than 90% of all forms received. Among the undergraduates, students of Hebrew (944), Japanese (742), Portuguese (716), Chinese (609), Norwegian (529), Swedish (316), Polish (226), Arabic (163), and Dutch (102) returned 92.6% of all forms on file. Among the graduates, students of Japanese (242), Portuguese (240), Chinese (230), and Arabic (124) returned 68.2% of all the forms on file.

Tables U-1 through U-4 present the data reported by the 4,694 undergraduates in 44 languages; and Tables G-1 through G-4 present data reported by the 1,412 graduates in 52 languages. The first column on each table lists the languages studied. Tables U-1 and G-1 give the total number of students, numbers of students by age categories and by college class (or year of graduate study), the number holding scholarships, the number of foreign citizens, and the number who reported that they were bilingual (or that English was not their native language).

By age, the largest group of undergraduates were those between 20 and 25 (50.5%), and second largest were those under 20 (42.4%). Among graduates, the largest group were in the age range 25-40 (53.6%), followed by the group under 25 (33.3%). Of the graduates, 33 (2.3%) did not give their age; 25 undergraduates (0.5%) did not do so.

Freshmen and sophomores accounted for more than half (28.5% and 25.5% respectively) the total number of undergraduates who answered the questionnaires; first- and second-year graduates accounted for more than half the total number of graduates replying (33.6% and 22.2%, respectively).

Among the 4,694 undergraduates, 35 (7%) were holders of National Defense Act Fellowships, whereas among the graduates, 271 (19.2%) held NDEA Fellowships. Other types of scholarships (commonly those awarded by colleges and universities) were held by 794 undergraduates (16.9%) and 339 graduates (24%).

Bilingual since childhood or not native speakers of English were 617 undergraduates (13.1%) and 233 graduates (16.5%). Two hundred fifty-five (5.4%) of the undergraduates and 136 (9.6%) of the graduates were citizens of a foreign country.

Tables U-2 and G-2 show the number of courses taken by students of each language and how many students of each language had taken courses in area studies and linguistics. Among both undergraduates and graduates, more than half had taken fewer than three courses (3,609, or 76.9% of the undergraduates; 875, or 62% of the graduates). Those who had taken three to five courses numbered 910 undergraduates and 384 graduates. Six to ten courses were reported for 161 undergraduates and 136 graduates. (In tabulation, double-credit courses were counted as the equivalent of two courses.)

About 6% of the undergraduates and a fourth of the graduates reported that they had taken courses in linguistics. Slightly more than 6% of the undergraduates and approximately 14% of the graduates reported area studies courses. Courses in literature were included in the programs of 22% of the undergraduates and 27% of the graduates.

An important aim of the questionnaire was to determine the purposes of the students in studying the languages concerned. Chart E, below, presents a breakdown of both undergraduate and graduate students according to their reasons for study. (Fuller information on this point is given in Tables U-3 and G-3.)

Tables U-4 and G-4 show previous study in other languages reported by students who were pursuing courses in neglected languages in 1963-64. In the tabulation of these languages, a student was counted once for every language he had studied for a year or more.

Among both undergraduates and graduates, more persons had studied French than any other of the commonly studied modern foreign languages. German ranked second on the graduate level, followed closely by Spanish. On the undergraduate level, Spanish was ahead of German.

MANPOWER IN THE NEGLECTED LANGUAGES, 1963-64

A REPORT IN FIVE PARTS

by

Hannelore Tierney, Gladys L. Lund, and Marjorie N. Ball

PART III

TEACHER ROSTERS

Section A — Alphabetical Roster of College and University Teachers
Section B — College and University Teachers by Language
Section C — Secondary Teachers

DECEMBER 1, 1964

The research reported herein was performed pursuant to Contract No. OE 4-14-033 with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE ROSTERS

In Section A, the names of the teachers appear in alphabetical order; following each name are references of rank, language, and institution.

In Section B, the languages are arranged in alphabetical order, and the names of the teachers appear alphabetically under each; following each name are references of rank and institution.

The (*) indicates a person who was reported by a department to be teaching a neglected language but who did not send in a roster form containing information on his training and experience. The absence of the star means that a roster form is on file in the offices of the MLA.

The symbol (+) means that the person so indicated was reported as teaching in the 1963-64 session. The absence of the symbol means that the person was reported as teaching in both 1962-63 and 1963-64.

The following code is used to indicate rank:

Prof = Professor
Assoc = Associate Professor
Asst = Assistant Professor
Inst = Instructor
Lect = Lecturer
TA = Teaching Assistant or Teaching Associate
TF = Teaching Fellow
Tchr = Teacher (no other rank given)
Inf = Native Informant

Institution abbreviations are given on pp. ii and iii, and language abbreviations on p. iv.

MANPOWER IN THE NEGLECTED LANGUAGES, 1963-64

A REPORT IN FIVE PARTS

by

Hannelore Tierney, Gladys L. Lund, and Marjorie N. Ball

PART IV

ROSTER OF STUDENTS BY LANGUAGE AND INSTITUTION

DECEMBER 1, 1964

The research reported herein was performed pursuant to Contract No. OE 4-14-033 with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

ARRANGEMENT OF THE ROSTER OF STUDENTS

Languages appear in alphabetical order.

Students of each language are listed in alphabetical order.

An asterisk (*) before a name means that the student so designated is also listed in the MLA report Manpower in the Neglected Languages, Fall 1962.

Following each name are references of college rank and of institution.

> The numbers 64, 65, 66, etc., mean that the student is an undergraduate whose year of graduation is 1964, 1965, 1966, etc.
> The ordinal numbers 1st, 2nd, 3rd, etc., indicate a graduate student in the first, second, third, etc., year of graduate study.
> The symbol (--) in the year-column means that the student did not indicate a year of graduation, or that he reported himself as a special or unclassified student.

The student's institution is indicated by the code in the last column, which is explained in ABBREVIATIONS USED IN THE ROSTER on pages ii, iii and iv.

MANPOWER IN THE NEGLECTED LANGUAGES, 1963-64

A REPORT IN FIVE PARTS

by

Hannelore Tierney, Gladys L. Lund, and Marjorie N. Ball

PART V — SUMMER SESSION, 1964

DECEMBER 1, 1964

The research reported herein was performed pursuant to Contract No. OE 4-14-033 with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

SUMMER SCHOOL, 1964

Introduction

In a report entitled "Neglected Languages in Summer School 1963," the Modern Language Association published the first data it had ever gathered on foreign language study in summer sessions. The present report gives parallel data for Summer 1964. Following the same plan of operation that was used for the first study, the MLA requested department chairmen in April of this year to estimate their summer enrollments and supply the names of summer school teachers. Due to the fine cooperation of the chairmen, it was possible to prepare questionnaires for both teachers and students and mail them for each school on the opening day of its summer session.

The pattern of summer-school study of neglected languages differed substantially from that of the regular session. As in the previous summer, the Language and Area Centers conducted under the National Defense Education Act played a major role in stimulating and supporting study of neglected languages in a score of universities. Several institutions pooled resources to offer cooperative programs; among these were the Universities of Colorado and Kansas, which combined their staffs for Chinese and Japanese and presented a joint program at Boulder, and, under a similar arrangement, taught courses in Slavic languages at Lawrence. Indiana University held the second of four rotating Far Eastern Language Institutes organized through the Committee on Institutional Cooperation (the first was held at Michigan in Summer 1963). This program for Chinese and Japanese had a faculty drawn from eleven cooperating institutions in the Midwest: the Universities of Chicago, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota, Northwestern, Ohio State, Purdue, and Wisconsin. In addition, many universities augmented their regular staffs with visiting professors and offered expanded programs in neglected languages. Students, too, in many cases left their home campuses to take special language courses, particularly intensive programs that offered an opportunity to complete a normal year's work within a term of eight or ten weeks.

Enrollments

Enrollments were reported in 29 languages at 54 institutions in Summer 1964, an increase over the 26 languages taught in 42 institutions in the previous summer. On the basis of teachers' reports submitted after classes had begun, the enrollments totalled 2469.

The following listing shows the languages and enrollments reported for Summer 1964: Chinese, 746; Japanese, 602; Portuguese, 207; Arabic, including Egyptian, 191; Polish, 146; Hebrew, 121; Persian (Iranian), 94; Hindi-Urdu, 57; Indonesian, 44; Hindi and Swahili, 41 each; Hawaiian, 25; Korean, 23; Swedish, 20; Thai, 19; Bengali, 14; Hausa and Turkish, 13 each; Telugu, 11; Lithuanian, 10; Marathi, 7; Vietnamese and Yoruba, 5 each; Serbo-Croatian and Tamil, 4 each; Bambara and Javanese, 2 each; Amharic and Igbo, 1 each.

Far Eastern languages comprised 60 per cent of the total enrollment, even higher than their 1963 share of 56.7%. Indian languages represented just over 5 per cent of the total in both years, while sub-Saharan African languages enrolled 2.5 per cent of the total in Summer 1964, for a slight loss. Portuguese, though it maintained third place in both summers, dropped from 10% of the total in 1963 to 8% in 1964.

Seven languages reported in 1963 were missing from the 1964 reports: Armenian, Burmese, Kannada, Luganda, Norwegian, Scandinavian (unspecified), and Twi. New languages added in the present report are Amharic, Bambara, Igbo, Iranian (Persian), Javanese, Lithuanian, Marathi, Swedish, Turkish, and Vietnamese.

Textbooks

Textbooks used in the summer session are included in the comprehensive listing in Part I of this report.

Tables and Rosters

Detailed information on summer session teachers and on students who completed and returned questionnaires is given in the tables and rosters which follow.

A total of 1691 students returned forms, compared with 1351 in Summer 1963. Almost 60 per cent of this year's students reported that they were taking graduate work. In the preceding summer, the proportion of graduate and undergraduate enrollments was approximately 50-50.

TEACHERS

According to information received from department chairmen, 301 persons were teaching neglected languages in summer session. The names of these teachers are given on the Roster of Teachers by Language and the Alphabetical Roster of Teachers in summer session. The languages and numbers of teachers of each in summer session are: African Linguistics 1, Amharic 1, Arabic 18, Bambara 3, Bengali 3, Egyptian Arabic 1, Chinese 94, Hausa 4, Hawaiian 1, Hebrew 13, Hindi 6, Hindi-Urdu 7, Igbo 2, Indonesian 4, Indonesian-Malay 1, Japanese 60, Javanese 1, Kabyle 2, Korean 6, Serbo-Croatian 1, Swahili 9, Swedish 3, Tamil 2, Telugu 1, Thai 2, Turkish 2, Vietnamese 1, Yoruba 2.

Two-thirds of the persons teaching in summer session had also been teaching in regular session (204 out of 301). Of the 75 persons reported to be teaching for the first time in Summer 1964, 55 returned teacher forms. Information on these teachers has been tabulated for this report to correspond to the similar tables in previous reports. The data is given on Table ST which follows on page 13. The first column lists the languages taught. The second gives the total number responding in each language.

By age (cols. 3 through 8), the largest groups of these teachers are the 16 (29.1%) between 30 and 39. and the 13 (23.6%) between 20 and 29. Seven (12.7%) were between 40 and 49. 4 (7.3%) between 50 and 59, 3 (5.4%) were over 60, and 12 (21.9%) did not give information on their age.

By academic rank (cols. 9-16), the largest groups were Informants (12 or 21.9%), followed by the 10 Instructors (18.1%), 7 Lecturers (12.8%), 5 Teaching Assistants or Associates (9.1%). 4 Assistant Professors (7.3%), 4 Professors (7.3%), and 3 Associate Professors (5.4%). Ten persons (18.1%) did not give their rank.

Information on degrees held is given in columns 17-28. A total of 16 (29.1%) held Ph.D.'s, 35 (62.5%) held master's, and 43 (77.3%) held bachelor's degrees. Eight held Ph.D's, 8 held master's, and 8 held bachelor's degrees in the language they were teaching in summer session. In linguistics, 2 held Ph.D's, 5 held master's, and 2 held bachelor's degrees. Degrees in other fields, and the numbers of persons who held each:

Bachelor's:	Education (4); History, French, and English (3 in each); Political Science, Economics, Classics, Philosophy, Spanish, and Literature (unspecified) (2 in each); Business Administration, Music, Sociology, International Relations (1 in each).
Master's	Education and French (3 in each): Economics and History (2 in each); Anthropology, Biology, Chinese, Classics, Comparative Literature, Drama, Ibero-American Studies, Islamic Studies, Library Science, Oriental Studies, Philosophy, Religion, and Sociology (1 in each).
Ph.D's:	Comparative Literature, Education, Jewish History, Islamic Studies, Oriental Studies, and Religion (1 in each).

Columns 29-37 list information on proficiencies in languages taught. Information from this code was tabulated for each teacher only for the language he was teaching in Summer 1964. The code numbers 0, 1, and 2, relating to speaking ability were mutually exclusive, and only one of the three was tabulated for each teacher. Persons who indicated more than one of these three were tabulated for the highest proficiency indicated. Code numbers 3 and 4, relating to reading ability, were also mutually exclusive, and persons who indicated both were counted under 3 only. The code numbers 5, 6, 7, and 8 were not mutually exclusive, and each was counted wherever it was indicated. The chart below gives the breakdown of numbers of persons indicating self-evaluated proficiencies in the languages taught by them in Summer School 1964, and the percentages of the total number who responded.

Code:	Number of Teachers indicating proficiency:	Per Cent of 55	No Indication given by	Per Cent of 55
0 Native or near-native command	34	61.8
1 Fluent though obviously non-native in speaking	8	14.5
2 Adequate for general conversation	13	23.7
Total indicating speaking proficiency	55	100.0
3 Read difficult material easily	42	76.4
4 Reading knowledge adequate for research	13	23.6
Total indicating reading proficiency	55	100.0
5 Can lecture in language	34	61.8	12	21.8
6 Translator or interpreter	24	43.6	31	56.4
7 Have made linguistic studies or analyses	32	58.1	23	41.8
8 Have taught language	55	100.0

Proficiencies were indicated by teachers in a total of 36 languages besides their language of instruction. The languages and the number of persons indicating proficiencies in them are: French 29; German 23; Spanish 15; Russian 9; Italian 6; Arabic, Japanese, and Turkish, 3 each; Chinese, Hausa, Lithuanian, Persian, Igbo and Yoruba, 2 each; and Bambara, Bengali, Dutch, Foochow, Fula, Hebrew, Hindi, Hungarian, Javanese, Kituba, Krio, Lao, Madurese, Marathi, Pali, Singhalese, Swedish, Tagalog, Tamil, Twi, Visayan, and Yiddish, 1 each.

ROSTERS OF TEACHERS

Two rosters of teachers are given: 1) by language and 2) by alphabetical order of names.

The (*) preceding a name indicates a person who was reported for the first time in Summer 1964 by a department as a teacher of a neglected language and consequently does not appear in any previous roster.

Following each name are references of rank, of language (on Alphabetical Roster only) and of institution.

The following code is used to indicate rank:

Prof - Professor
Assoc - Associate Professor
Asst - Assistant Professor
Inst - Instructor
Lect - Lecturer
TA - Research or Teaching Associate, Teaching Assistant, Teaching Fellow, Preceptor, Drill Instructor
Tchr - Teacher (no other rank given)
Inf - Native Informant

Students

The total number of students who responded in the summer session is 1691 (698 undergraduate and 993 graduate students). Graduate students of 27 languages and undergraduate students of 20 languages returned the questionnaire. Bambara, Igbo, Javanese, Serbo-Croatian, Vietnamese, and Yoruba are the 6 languages for which data from graduates only are available.

Table SU gives data on the 698 undergraduate students and Table SG gives data on the 993 graduate students. On both tables information is given on total number of students in each language, their age brackets, class year, foreign citizenship, scholarships, number of courses taken, numbers having taken courses in area studies, linguistics, and literature, numbers who were bilingual (or for whom English was not the native language), and reasons for study.

By age (cols. 3-6) the largest group of undergraduates were the 372 between 20 and 25, (53.4%), followed by the 248 under 20 (35.5%). The largest group of graduates were the 436 between 25 and 40 (43.9%), and the second largest was the group of 424 under 25 (42.7%).

By class year (cols. 7-11), Juniors and Seniors accounted for over 60% (28.2% and 36.9% respectively). The largest group of graduates were the 374 (37.7%) who did not indicate their year of study. The next largest group were the 248 1st year graduate students (25.0%).

Columns 12, 13, 14, and 15 give the numbers of students who were foreign citizens and the numbers of students who held scholarships. 5.6% of the undergraduates (39) and 5.7% of the graduates (57) were foreign citizens. 42.0% of the undergraduates and 42.4% of the graduates held scholarships. At both levels fewer than one-third of the students had taken more than two courses in the neglected language which they were studying in Summer 1964. More than 6 courses in the languages had been taken by a total of 84 or 8.5% graduates, and 38 or 5.5% undergraduates. In all tabulations of numbers of courses, an intensive (double-credit) course was counted as two courses.

Area studies courses (column 20) were taken by 35 (3.5%) of the graduates and by 49 (9.3%) of the undergraduates, linguistics courses (column 21) by 169 (17.0%) of the graduates and 65 (9.3%) of the undergraduates, and literature courses (column 22) by 48 (4.8%) of the graduates and 56 (8.0%) of the undergraduates.

Bilingual since childhood (column 23), or not native speakers of English, were 114 graduates (11.5%) and 56 undergraduates (8.0%).

One of the main purposes of the survey was to determine why students were learning each language. Columns 24 through 39 list the most frequent responses made by students to the request that they describe their reasons for study. Column 39 shows numbers of students in each language who had reasons other than those specified in cols. 24-38. The following chart shows the breakdown of undergraduate and graduate students.

SUMMER SESSION 1964
ROSTER OF STUDENTS BY LANGUAGE

The student roster is given by language.

The symbol * appearing before a name indicates a listing on one or more of three previous rosters (Fall 1962, Summer School 1963, Fall 1963).

Following each name are references of year and of institution.

The numbers 64, 65, 66, etc., indicate the undergraduate student's year of graduation.

The ordinal numbers 1st, 2nd, 3rd, etc., indicate the graduate student's year of study.

The symbol -- appearing in the year-column means that the student did not indicate a year of graduation, or that he was an unclassified student (special student, etc.).

The abbreviation PD stands for post doctoral studies.

The abbreviation PC stands for Peace Corps training program.

Included at the end of the roster is a list of high school students enrolled at Columbia and Colorado Universities in East Asian language and area studies.

The Institution Code is given below:
